SFU Indigenous University Preparation Program is still accepting applications!

The Indigenous University Preparation Program \(IUPP\) at Simon Fraser University is now accepting student applications for their next cohort, beginning in Fall 2021 (early application deadline April 30, 2021).

The program helps pave the way for Indigenous Students to successfully transition to undergraduate studies using small cohort-style classes and a supportive atmosphere. They offer first-year academic credit courses that integrate humanities and social sciences with Indigenous perspectives. Although a fairly young program, they have had the opportunity to open the door to a university education for our students through their unique approach to build foundations in math and writing as well.

See the one-page flyer. This program may be of particular interest to any current (or former) youth in care since they may qualify for financial support to cover some of the costs of their education. These may range from Provincial or SFU institutional Tuition Waivers, to living costs! Interested applicants can consult the online frequently asked questions for additional information or apply via the on-line application.

Who we are in three words:

1. INDIGENOUS Specifically, we are primarily members of the Anishnaabek nation of Curve Lake First Nation, but our team consists of a diverse group from the Iroquois, and Cree nations as well.
2. CONTEMPORARY We are a young team of passionate, creative people who represent new thinking - with a mindset that anything is possible if you're crazy enough to try
3. INCLUSIVE As our traditional teachings have taught us, all nations on mother earth are equally connected to the creator, we have open arms and love for YOU no matter where you come from, or how you choose to be happy.
